About the Authors

Douglas White (Ph.D., University of Minnesota, 1969. drwhite@uci.edu). Professor of Anthropology at the University of California, Irvine, where he is also Graduate Director of Social Networks and member of the Institute for Mathematical Behavioral Sciences. He received his PhD in 1969 and advanced to Associate Professor at the University of Pittsburgh (1967-79) where he co-directed the Cross-Cultural Cumulative Coding Center and took leave (1971-73) to co-direct the National Language Study project for the Irish Republic. He is a Directeur des Etudes Invité at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes in Paris, past President of the Social Science Computing Association, and recipient of the A. von Humboldt distinguished senior scientist prize in Germany. Current modeling work is on large-scale longitudinal network studies of human populations and business organizations and the network dynamics of changing social, economic, and institutional configurations. He collaborates on long-term social research in Europe, Latin America, and Africa. His CV can be found at <http://eclectic.ss.uci.edu/~drwhite>.

Ulla Johansen (Ph.D., Hamburg University, 1954. Ulla.Johansen@uni-koeln.de). After a long career working in museums and universities, she is now retired from her position as Director and Professor of the Institute of Ethnology at the University of Cologne. Her current work is on the ethnography of Turkish-speaking peoples and of Estonians, on shamanism and other fields of the comparative study of religion. Her books and articles deal also with ethnohistory. She is honorary member of the German Anthropological Association (Deutsche Gesellschaft für Völkerkunde) and President of the international Societas Uralo-Altaica.
